

PARK LIFE | After helping put the Jimmy Watson-winning Flametree well and truly on the win-making map, Jeremy and Daniela Gordon are on the move, joining forces with Peter Walsh, owner of Amelia Park Estate to form Amelia Park Wines. And yes, that's the same Amelia Park as the delectable high-end lamb you and I get a little too excited about. Although Jeremy will be plying his trade in borrowed winery space for the 2010 vintage, plans for the future include not only Amelia Park Wine's own winery, but a cellar door too, complete with restaurant run by a high-profile Perth restaurateur. The proprietors are hoping to have Amelia Park Wines' first releases – a new season SSB as well as a shiraz and cab-merlot from 2009 – in the market by mid-year. ameliaparkwines.com.au.

NEW VENTURE:
Amelia Park's Daniela and Jeremy Gordon.

